Lucienne Diver writes Young Adult and Adult fiction, frequently with humor, but always with heart. Her latest release, The Countdown Club, is a young adult thriller about what happens when a diverse group of teens receive notes threatening them with expiration dates, like “Six days to die.” They have to bond together, putting aside their differences (and their secrets) to solve the mystery before the next date is up.

Her previous young adult thriller, Faultlines, is the story of Vanessa Raines, who’s reconstructing the last six months of her best friend’s life to find out who is going around by the name of “Poetic Justice” and taking revenge for her death.

Her Vamped series features a teen fashionista who goes from chic to EEK when she wakes up as one of the undead, finding more humanity in death than she did in life. Her Latter-Day Olympians urban fantasies present a heroine with a touch of gorgon blood, who can literally stop men in their tracks. If only all the monsters she meets were so easy...

Lucienne gives her series a unique spin, approaching the books with a healthy sense of the absurd and characters who know how to fight for what’s right.

She's the author of the popular Vamped series of Young Adult novels (think Clueless meets Buffy the Vampire Slayer). VOYA says of them, "Diver uses wit and adventure to hook readers with this teen vampire story" and suggests that the books "will attract even reluctant readers."

Her Latter-Day Olympians series features Tori Karacis, a heroine who can, quite literally, stop men in their tracks. Titles include Bad Blood, Crazy in the Blood, Rise of the Blood, Battle for the Blood, Blood Hunt and the prequel story "Trickster Blood". Long and Short Reviews gave it her favorite endorsement of all time, "Bad Blood is a delightful Urban Fantasy, a clever mix of Janet Evanovich and Rick Riordan, and a true Lucienne Diver original."

Her short stories have appeared in the Kicking It anthology edited by Faith Hunter and Kalayna Price (Roc Books), the Strip-Mauled and Fangs for the Mammaries anthologies edited by Esther Friesner (Baen Books) and the Rogue Mage anthology Tribulations (Lore Seekers Press). Her essay "Abuse" was published in Dear Bully: 70 Authors Tell Their Stories (HarperCollins).

She lives in Florida with her husband, daughter, the two cutest puppies in all the known worlds, and a second floor ever in danger of collapsing into the first from the weight of all of her books.

THE COUNTDOWN CLUB

YA Suspense
December 2018
Bella Rosa Books
ISBN 978-1622681457

"Mysterious and cleverly plotted, The Countdown Club is a must read for fans of One of Us is Lying." —Amy Christine Parker, author of GATED and ASTRAY

"A well-crafted young adult mystery is a delight to read, and Diver's The Countdown Club is just such a story. With a diverse group of unlikely teen sleuths, each with their own set of skills and real-world issues, you'll find yourself guessing who's the murderer right along with them. It's a thoroughly enjoyable read. Just be sure the lights are on and all your doors are locked." Jana Oliver, international bestselling author of the Demon Trappers series

Making her way through high school in her art geek bubble, Rayna Butler is used to being largely ignored by her classmates.

Sure, she marches to her own beat--her Kool-Aid dyed hair and her edgy paintings make that perfectly clear. So when she arrives at school one normal Monday morning and finds a handwritten note in her backpack that reads "Six Days to Die," she's sure that it's just a friend playing a prank on her.

Jack Harkness is one of the toughest guys in school, a loner hiding his painful home life. When he also receives one of the threatening notes he doesn't take it for anything he can't handle.

Rayna and Jack soon discover that even more students have received threatening notes, although each has a different expiration date. "Six Days to Die..". "Two Days to Die..". "Seventeen Days to Die..". there seems to be no rhyme or reason to it. And none of the kids appear to have anything in common.

The students take the threats with varying degrees of seriousness--until the first murder. Liam, the class salutatorian, is the first to go, when his house mysteriously burns down around him and his mother as well. Certain that their days are numbered, Rayna and Jack convince the others to join together to track down the killer before their time is up.

"This book rollicked along, full of humor, romance, and action. Gina is a smart-aleck heroine worth reading about, a sort of teenage Betsy Taylor (Undead and Unwed) with a lot of Cher Horowitz (Clueless) thrown in. Fans of Katie Maxwell will devour "Vamped." — Rosemary Clement-Moore, author of Texas Gothic

"Move over Buffy! Lucienne Diver transfuses some fresh blood into the vampire genre. Feisty, fashionable and fun--Vamped is a story readers will sink their teeth into and finish thirsty for more." —Mari Mancusi, author of The Blood Coven Vampires series

"Those who enjoy a good giggle will respond eagerly to this brassy, campy romp."
—Kirkus Reviews

"This quick read is filled with teen slang and fashion consciousness; it's a lighthearted, action-packed, vampire romance story following in the vein of Julie Kenner's "Good Ghouls" (Berkley), Marlene Perez's "Dead" (Harcourt), and Rachel Caine's "The Morganville Vampires" (Signet) series." —School Library Journal

"Have you ever wondered what it would be like if Cordelia Chase got turned into a vampire? If you have, look no further than Vamped for the answer. It's like Mean Girls with fangs, with witty dialogue and more pop culture references than you can keep up with." — Wondrous Reads
